Dear Parents/Carers,

I hope all the mother's had a wonderful Mother's Day last Sunday. Maybe you received some flowers? We certainly saw an abundance of daffodils this week. Malcolm, from the London Flower Society, visited yesterday to examine the entries for our annual daffodil competition. It's fair to say that he was really impressed with children's efforts, and the work we are doing as a school to promote a love of nature. Whatever certificate your child received—Gold, Silver, or Bronze—every effort counted, And...there's always another opportunity next Spring!

Two of our classes were out and about this week. Willow Class visited the Prince Phillp Collection Centre on Wednesday.

The children had a fantastic day investigating and describing different materials. They even had to wear Lab Coats to carry out different investigations. One member of Willow told me: "We used PH paper, and we found out that our skin is acidic. We kept the paper on our hands for 60 seconds - it turned pink, proving that or skin is acidic!" We also met Humphrey, a 37 year old teddy, who sailed around the world with the first all female crew."

Palm Class visited The Royal Observatory in Greenwich yesterday. They were invited by the observatory to try out some new science sessions, which they were piloting. The children gained much from their experiences. "We found out that there are many solar systems outside ours, and that a robot was sent into space to photograph other galaxies."

Thankfully, we have experienced some sunshine this week , and this certainly has helped to get us all in the mood for our performance next week. Please do join us for our Spring Concert, on Friday 20th March. The children have been working hard to learn lyrics and musical notes to ensure we end the term with a 'spring' in our step next week.

Wishing you all a lovely weekend. Very best wishes,

Mr Guy
